Here's Looking at You Kid!

As a working parent it can be so hard to balance things. When I'm at work, I really miss my baby, and even though I have a terrific nanny, I feel secure knowing I can check up on my child whenever I want with Total Connect services. You know, just to make sure everything is okay. I found the solution I need with Video Services from Honeywell.

Just this morning my infant son was crying when I left, but when I got to work, I looked in and saw that he was sleeping peacefully. This service gives me so much peace of mind. I couldn't imagine being without it.

Ready for a Close-Up...

Life can be so hectic and between both of us working and the kids' busy schedules, it's hard to keep track of everything that's going on. And, with teenagers, sometimes I worry. But with Video Services from Honeywell, I know when my son gets home from school because I get a picture on my cell phone. And, I can check from a PC to make sure he's getting his homework done.

We live in a good community, but we all know there's no such thing as being too safe. Break-ins still occur, and you can be in danger even when you're home. With my husband's long hours at the office, I feel safer knowing that when the doorbell rings, I can just flip the TV channel and see who is at the door. If it's someone I don't know, I don't answer it – and my children know not to open the door to strangers either. After all, there is no such thing as being too safe.

Reach Out and Touch.

Mom's in her 80's, living alone and I can't help but worry about her. It's an uncomfortable feeling when your elderly parent is over 1,000 miles away. I found added peace of mind with Video Services from Honeywell. There is a camera in her hallway which she passes through constantly – from the bedroom to the bathroom to the kitchen and to the den. It's a great way to make sure Mom is alright without infringing on her privacy. Now whether I'm at work, home or traveling, I can log in and see that everything really is okay. We also had a camera placed outside her front door and she just loves that she can click to another TV channel to see who's there without having to get up out of her chair.

Just a Click Away.

Last year we made an investment in a vacation home. We try to get away as much as we can – even if just for some long weekends. It's a great investment, and we'll surely use it a lot more when we retire in a few years. We wanted to be able to check up on the place from home – just to be sure everything is fine. Since we already use Video Services from Honeywell, it made perfect sense to get it for the vacation home too. We feel better knowing we can look in on our investment whenever we want. It's an added layer of security that gives us greater peace of mind.
